Master of Northern Governance and Development

Bringing the North to the university and the university to the North

The Master of Northern Governance and Development (MNGD) program was designed by Northerners for Northerners. Students study governance and development topics — all taught through a northern lens. Classes are available by videoconferencing and in evenings to accommodate working professionals and northern residents.

Features:

- Community-directed research component
- 10-day fully funded international field school
- Funding and mentorship supports

Qualifications:

- Four-year degree in any discipline (min. 70% average)
- Demonstrated connection to the North
- NAD residents have priority for admission

Accepting applications until May 1, 2014 at usask.ca/icngd
